

COST OF LIVING CRISIS

Bank of Scotland Foundation provides almost £1m of additional financial support to Scotland's Third Sector

In light of the new challenge impacting Scotland, we are providing almost £1m of additional financial support to Scotland's Third Sector to help charities through the cost of living crisis. This will enable us to provide more grants throughout the remainder of this year, as well as providing extra support to our current grantees.

Charities applying for funding through our grants programmes are already indicating that their core cost expenditure is rising significantly and at the same time the number of people seeking support from them is rapidly growing as more and more people experience severe financial hardship, food insecurity, housing issues, redundancy, worsened mental health and fuel poverty.

As the crisis heightens, we recognise the importance of acting swiftly and helping charities to reach some of Scotland's most vulnerable people.

A further £977,332 to help charities face rising costs

All our current grantees have been offered a 10% grant uplift to help towards rising costs and ensure they can continue to deliver their services. We expect 179 charities to share £327,332.

As there is the strong possibility that some charities will not be able to survive the coming year, we have increased the budgets of our remaining programmes for this year by £650,000 to ensure more charities can benefit from our programmes.

We also remain committed to offering core cost funding for charities though all of our grants programmes, funding costs such as fuel, electricity, heating, lighting, salaries – some of the areas hardest hit by rising costs.

For the second year running, we will be offering unrestricted funding through our Change grants programme allowing charities to direct our funding to where they need it most.

We also continue to offer strategic support and guidance to charities through our Enhance Mentoring programme which sees Lloyds Banking Group colleagues mentor some of our funded charities. In addition, charities and individuals can access online lessons and webinars in digital, life and work skills at the Bank of Scotland Academy (www.bankofscotlandacademy.co.uk)

As we strive to help charities through the challenging months ahead, we remain hugely grateful to Lloyds Banking Group for our donation of almost £4m in February this year, without which our work would simply not be possible.

GRANT PROGRAMMES JUNE 2022 - FEBRUARY 2023

Due to the impact that rising costs are having on charities, we have increased the budget for our remaining grants programmes this year by £650,000 to ensure we can support even more charities and reach a greater number of people in need.

Our Reach grants programme is for smaller charities with an income of £1m or less and offers £1,000 - £25,000 of funding over one year. Charities can apply for funding for their greatest area of need whether that be project costs, capital costs or core costs.

Through our Change grants programme, charities can apply for unrestricted core costs allowing them to respond quickly to a changing environment and deploy resources accordingly. Offering significant amounts of funding, charities with an income of £500,000 - £5 million can apply for £50,000 - £100,000 per year, over 1-2 years.

COST OF LIVING CRISIS UPLIFT FUNDING

Many charities have spent the last two years supporting their communities through the pandemic and in doing so, their budgets have been significantly stretched. Now, with reduced reserves, decreased donations and rising costs, the financial impact on charities is severe.

We recognise it's becoming harder for charities to respond to the growing needs of people and in response to this, we've offered our 179 current grantees an additional 10% of their grant.

Totalling £327,332, our uplift funding will help charities to cover rising costs and enable them to continue to provide vital services.

BUILDING OUR BOARD

We have been delighted to welcome several new Trustees to our Board with the appointment of Jackie Leiper, Ken MacIntosh, and Julianne Reddin in November 2021. More recently, Jon Alexander and Laura Armstrong joined our Board. Our new Trustees bring a wealth of collective experience and will help to shape the Foundation's strategy for 2023 and beyond.

In February, we said a fond farewell to our Chair, Philip Grant, as he stood down after seven years with the Foundation. Under Philip's leadership, we have seen significant progress and improvement as the Foundation has grown and continued to deliver a positive impact in communities across Scotland.

Also in February, Donald MacKechnie, Insurance & Wealth Transformation and Strategy Director, Lloyds Banking Group, was appointed as our new Chair and brings with him a fresh dynamic to the Board. Donald's knowledge and experience will enrich our Board and he will continue to challenge us to do more to support Scotland's charities.

We are excited to continue our journey with our new Board members and look forward to them visiting some of our current grantees over the next few months to discuss the challenges they are facing and see first-hand how our funding is helping.

A WORD FROM OUR CHAIR

Firstly, my thanks go to Philip Grant, who retired from our Board in February. Having been Chair for seven years, Philip performed with dedication and passion throughout his tenure and helped steer the Foundation through an incredibly difficult two years as the full extent of the pandemic became clear for charities.

In my first six months as Chair, the cost of living crisis is making the need for funding ever more crucial as charities now contend with economic uncertainty and inflationary pressures. Therefore, we felt it vitally important that we take swift action and increase our financial support for charities by almost £1m to help them to continue to operate.

Having seen the hugely positive impact that our Covid-19 contingency awards made to charities, we hope the uplift funding we are providing to our 179 current grantees will help them through this latest crisis. Increasing our grants programme budget by £650,000 will also enable our funding to support even more charities through this difficult period.

We are very proud of our partnership with Lloyds Banking Group and hugely grateful for our annual donation. Their donation of almost £4m in February enabled us to plan the ways that we would support charities throughout 2022 and flex our response to provide even more assistance.

The Trustees and the Foundation team continue to work tirelessly and with great dedication to support Scotland's charities and make me very proud to hold the position of Chair.
